ART EXHIBITION

Kilohana Leaguers Make Good Showing.

COLLECTION IS RATHER SMALL

Improvement Shown in Character of Work.

First View at Rooms Last Night.
Some Good Subjects Well Handled.

The members and a few friends of the Kilohana Art League gathered in the hall, Treloar block, last night for the purpose of taking a first view of the various works of art contributed by those of the organization gifted with the power to use colors on canvas and china. They were received on behalf of the League by Mrs. A. B. Tucker and Mrs. W. M. Graham.

The collection of works of art, constituting a smaller number than on the last occasion of the kind, is the regular spring exhibition. Fewer though the number of works may be,
they certainly equal, and in some respects, far surpass those on show at the last exhibition. In the language of an art critic present at the first view
last night, "The quality is better."

The water colors were hung on the Ewa wall, while the principal oils were on the makai, the Waikiki wall being occupied by architectural sketches and a few oils. On this last side was placed
"The China cabinet."

D. Howard Hitchcock's work of this year is stronger, and shows, perhaps,
a greater amount of thought and study than much of his previous work. The pictures in the present exhibition deal with single thoughts, and all of the artists' skill seems to be poured forth to make as much as possible out of those single thoughts. For instance, the piece called "War" is just a flight of angry waves with an immovable rock. The effect is most intensely that of war and that alone. In another,
"Peace," a canoe out on the ocean, sailing, with two natives seated at bow and stern, there is an atmosphere of quiet, a feeling of rest, a touch of repose. The water, the sky, the movement of the canoe, as it so appears, are all calculated to instill that one thought—peace. His "Kilauea at Night" is a weird but realistic product.
His "Cyclomere Lake," one to make merry. What, with the scorching on his bike, chasing himself around the lake,
the natives near the lake and the general, happy sunshine over the whole, one feels constrained to look often at the picture for the mere happy thoughts conveyed.

Mrs. Kate M. Wells' contributions are deserving of special mention, as they show great strength and individuality. Her "Day Dreams" is a charming study of a little girl. The perfect balance and arrangement is pleasing.
Her "Arrangement of Chrysanthemums" is strong and vigorous, and the light effect is good.

C. W. Dickey's architectural sketches are a credit to the young man.

Miss Nolte's work on China shows great delicacy. Miss Nolte has the power to take a flower and with an adept brush, models it to fit the general style of her decoration.

Other contributors were: Mrs. Dil-lingham, Mrs. A. B. Tucker, Mrs. H.
Kelley, Misses A. Parke, Bessie F.
French, Kate M. Wells, Mrs. Pierre
Jones, Miss Bessie Afong, Mrs. Decota, Philip H. Dodge, M. G. Beckwith and
R. C. Monteagle.

The semi-annual accounts of H. A.
Widemann, guardian of the minor children of L. Richardson, were filed yesterday.

The jury decided that the Paia Plantation Company was liable for the services of J. H. Raymond upon a plantation Japanese and rendered a verdict for $250 for the plaintiff.

The thirteenth annual accounts of T. R. Walker, et al., trustees under the will of James Woods, were filed yesterday.

Carlo A. Long has been ordered by the Court to pay $20 a month alimony
during the suit, brought by his wife,
for divorce.

C. Lai Young has been appointed assignee of Nin Sing Wai, a bankrupt.

The inventory of the estate of Wainee was filed yesterday.

An order has been made by the Court for the payment of certain sums necessary for expenses to James R. and John D. Holt. Notice of appeal from the decision of Judge Perry, in the matter of the guardianship, has also been filed.

Frank F. Porter has brought suit against the Hawaiian Pork and Packing Company for $2,000, for alleged breach of contract. The plaintiff claims that he was under contract to slaughter all hogs for the defendants and that they have broken the agreement and have slaughtered their hogs for themselves. The summons is for the August term of the Court.

The will of Elizabeth Luer has been admitted to probate; $5,000 real.

J. Q. Wood, master in the case of Kapilani vs. L. K. Puahi, filed his report yesterday.

According to the newspapers an Ohio husband became the happy father of seven children not long ago. Of the seven all lived but one. It is to be hoped that he laid in a supply of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, the only sure cure for croup, whooping cough, colds
and coughs, and so insured his children against these diseases. For sale by all druggists and dealers. Benyon
Smith & Co., agents for H. I.

Major McLeod reported for the Committee on Bands, Parades and Salutes, saying that the parade would be about the same as that of last year, only much more elaborate. All the warships in the harbor will take part. If satisfactory arrangements to that end can be made, there will be two Japanese men-of-war in port at that time, and an invitation will be sent to them.

The Government, Kamohameha, St.
Louis College and Portuguese Bands will be in the parade. More money than last year will be given the Fire Department for decoration purposes.

Major Jones reported for the Sports Committee, reading the program already published in the Advertiser.

Captain Coyne reported on the Decoration of Executive Building Committee, saying that the building would be dressed for the day only, on account of the fireworks at night in some other locality.

J. A. Kennedy reported on fireworks.
These will be in the bay at a point
quite distant from the canal buoy. Brewers' wharf and the present moorings of the U. S. S. Philadelphia. The committee will expend more than twice as much money as last year. Inducement will be offered for the illumination of boats, and something in the way of a water carnival will be one of the features. In this, a great deal of help will be looked for from the men of the Philadelphia, who have had experience at the water carnival in San Diego, Cal.

The various amounts asked for by the sub-committees were appropriated by the General Committee.

The matter of whether the celebration shall take place on July 3d or 5th was left open. The date will be that fixed by the Government, probably Saturday, July 3d.

W. H. Hoogs was unanimously elected grand marshal, and by a resolution
he was given power to select his aides.

The matter of an official program was brought up and discussed. The right to issue the same was given to R. L. Scott, who will get out 3,000
eight-page programs without expense
to the committee.

SOCIETY NOTES.

Nothing Very Much Doing Last Week.

Last week was an exceptionally dry
one in society circles. This is probably a reaction from the gay and giddy
whirl of the past six weeks.

The Vice Versa Club will meet on Monday night at the home of Miss Myra Angus, Richards street, for the enjoyment of another one of the good times which has characterized the club
from the very beginning.

Tickets are out and selling rapidly for an exhibition of fancy dancing, to be given by the children of Mr.
Gunn's dancing school, sometime before the departure of the Australia.
The arrangement is made in that way,
so that Mrs. Irwin will be enabled to be present on the occasion. The occasion will be a delightful one.

The Myrtle Boat Club will give no dance next month, on account of the training the rowing men will have to do for the races.

A cordial invitation is extended the captains and officers of the various men-of-war in port, as well as all those interested in the game of tennis, to be present on the courts of the Pacific
Tennis Club from 4 to 6 this afternoon.
In another column will be found the events to take place.

On Tuesday Mrs. von Holt will give a luncheon for Miss Gay, of Kauai,
and H. B. M.'s Commissioner A. G. S.
Hawes.

The Gay party, together with H. B.
M.'s Commissioner A. G. S. Hawes and others will be entertained at Moanalua Saturday.

There will be a dance at the Hawaiian Hotel Tuesday night, the date of the arrival of the Australia.

Court News.

The final accounts of Elizabeth B.
Waterhouse, executrix of the will of the late J. T. Waterhouse, were filed yesterday and the executrix discharged.

The verdict of the R. W. Holt vs.
Goo Kim case has been rendered,
awarding the plaintiff an undivided
half of the land claimed and $24.63 damages.

Fred Waldron, of Hawaii, has brought suit for $10,000 damages against L. A. Andrews and Manuel Clement for false imprisonment. The defendants have filed a demurrer.

The semi-annual accounts of H. A.

GRACIOUS QUEEN

Memorial to Be Sent Queen
Victoria.

COMMITTEE MET LAST NIGHT

Plans for Proposed Hospital Are Satisfactory.

Judge Widemann's Generous Offer—Masterpiece of Viggo Jacobsen.

A second meeting of British residents in connection with the intended celebration of Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee was held last night in the Arlington Hotel. Mr. T. Rain Walker having called the meeting to order, and the secretary having read the minutes of the previous meeting.

Mr. T. Clive Davies, chairman of the Executive Committee, gave a sketch of the proposed program. This report of progress was accepted and the committee was authorized to go ahead and spend to the extent of $1,500 in the meantime.

Sir Robert Herron, chairman of the Committee on Address, reported that the address to Queen Victoria would be ready for signature tomorrow (Friday) and he asked the meeting to nominate six persons to sign the same.
The following were accordingly appointed to do the deed, viz: Sir Robert Herron, Wm. G. Irwin, F. M.
Swanzy, T. May, D. Logan, W. F. Wilson and T. Rain Walker, chairman.

An appropriation to defray cost of address was duly passed by the meeting. The text of the address is as follows:

"To Her Most Gracious Majesty, Victoria, Queen of Great Britain and Ireland, Empress of India, Defender of the Faith, Etc., Etc.—Greeting:

"May I Please Your Majesty:

"As a committee, appointed by a large number of Your Majesty's loyal subjects, resident in the Hawaiian Islands, we desire respectfully to approach Your Majesty on the occasion of the completion of the 60th anniversary of your happy reign, to offer to you our heartfelt congratulations, and to give you assurance of our unchanging devotion to your person and your throne.

"It must be to Your Majesty, as it is to all Your Majesty's loyal subjects, a source of pride and pleasure to reflect on the many blessings which a kind Providence has vouchsafed to the British Empire, and the rapid advances which your people have made in social and material progress during Your Majesty's glorious reign. But nothing has contributed so much to endear you to the hearts of all your subjects as the illustrious example which you have in your own person set them of every domestic virtue, and the zeal which Your Majesty has always manifested for the interests of religion and morality.

"It is the devout prayer of Your Majesty's most loyal subjects in this distant country that Your Majesty's life may be long preserved to guide the destinies of your great empire with that wisdom and justice by which Your Majesty's rule has ever been distinguished in the past.

"We have the honor to be, Your Majesty's faithful subjects.

"Dated at Honolulu, June, 1897."

The address as drafted by the committee, was placed in the hands of Mr.
Viggo Jacobsen, the well-known pen artist, for the purpose of being suitably engrossed. Mr. Jacobsen has now completed the work, and it will be exhibited in McInerney's corner window from Saturday morning until the arrival of the steamer Aorangi, by which vessel
the address will be forwarded to England, so as to arrive before Jubilee
Day.

The design adopted by Mr. Jacobson is purely heraldic in character.
On the first page, in a large shield, upheld by the lion and unicorn and surrounded by a background of roses,
thistles and shamrocks, are embazoned Queen Victoria's name and titles.
Then follows the address itself. On the left border are the arms of England, Scotland and Ireland, and on the right border is a conventional design of the national flowers of the three kingdoms. The royal motto, "Dieu et Mon Droit," is also introduced alongside.

On the second page of the address
there is a repeat pattern of shamrock, thistle and rose, each flower being surmounted by an imperial crown, and on the right-hand side is depicted the imperial monogram, V. R. I., surrounded by a laurel wreath and the words, Victoria Regina Imperatrix in a scroll.
Underneath are the badges of the Order of the Garter (St. George and the Dragon), Order of St. Andrew and Order of St. Patrick, with their several appropriate mottoes. At the foot are the royal arms of Great Britain and Ireland, and opposite the space set apart for signatures are two shields

overlapping one another, emblazoned
with the Hawaiian colors and the British Union Jack. Along the bottom of the last page are the words, "God Save the Queen," each letter being drawn on a separate shield. The address itself is done in heavy Gothic letters,
and includes eight large, illuminated capitals, the first one, a letter "M," being taken from an old Celtic manuscript.

The address is enclosed in a handsome cover of crimson morocco, bearing the following inscription in gold
letters on the outside:

"To Her Majesty, Queen Victoria,
from British Residents in the Hawaiian Islands."

Mr. Jacobson is to be congratulated on the highly artistic manner in which he has carried out the work entrusted to him.

The Finance Committee, by its chairman, F. M. Swanzy, reported progress.

Plans for a cottage hospital were submitted by Messrs. Alex. Young and T. Lucas, the building and furnishings to cost about $8,200, and it was estimated that the running expenses
would be $200 a month.

Mr. Young said that Drs. McKibbin,
Herbert, Miner and Murray had kindly offered their services free for such an hospital, and that Judge Widemann had informed them that when the fund reached $10,000 he would give $2,500 additional.

Meeting approved of the project as submitted, and authorized the Finance Committee to solicit subscriptions.

A vote of thanks to Manager and Mrs. Krouse for the use of the Arlington parlors was passed, and the meeting adjourned.

HABITS OF SEALS.

President Jordan and the Commission of Investigation.

It is now assured that Dr. David Starr Jordan, of Stanford University, will go to Alaska this year as the head of a commission to investigate the habits of seals. The plans of the commission are given as follows:

"The gentlemen who will go North,
representing this Government, are Dr.
Jordan, Frederic A. Lucas, of the Smithsonian Institution, who was one of the commissioners last year; Geo.
A. Clark, private secretary to Dr. Jordan and secretary of the commission.
Leonhard Stejneger, of the Smithsonian Institution, who is also one of the commissioners, has been ordered to go,
but as the trip will greatly inconvenience him, he may not do so, in which case some other man will be named.

"The United States steamer Albatross will be at the command of the commission, the same as last year. Dr.
Jordan will send Mr. Clark and perhaps others to Pribilof Islands about May 20. They will confine their attention chiefly to taking census of the seals on some of the larger rookeries, which will be compared with a similar census taken last year. Dr. Jordan will go some six weeks later, and will verify the investigations made by the others.

"One of the specific duties of Dr.
Jordan on the trip will be the investigation of the seal otter herd, the destruction of which has come to be almost as rapid and disastrous as that of the fur seal. These animals are found principally around the Trinity and Chirchoff Islands, situated southeast of the Alaskan peninsula, and their skins are very valuable. They are found in American waters, but the British poachers take them just as they do the fur seals. Their extermination is threatened, and the Government will make a thorough investigation of the best means to protect the animals.

"The work preliminary to the northern trip has compelled Dr. Jordan to cancel nearly all of the lecture engagements made for the summer."

ROYAL CHARITIES DON'T THRIVE.
Subscriptions to Jubilee Funds Far Short of Expectations.

LONDON, May 8.—Inglorious and embarrassing collapse is certain in royal appeals to the charity and generosity of England in the celebration of the jubilee reign. The India famine fund did succeed in breaking all records in England, for the total this week passed the previous mark of a trifle more than $2,250,000. This, however, is not the jubilee fund and is not under royal auspices. The Prince of Wales Hospital fund was expected to eclipse all other charities in history.
It was confidently anticipated to reach the magnificent total of $3,300,000,
which would just cover in the income
it would produce the annual deficit of the hospitals. No figures have been printed, but there is no longer any talk of millions. There is doubt if £250,000 will be raised, and the Prince is so discomfited that he is presently going to the city to make a personal appeal for funds.

It is hoped that some £500,000 will be gained from the sale of jubilee stamps, which will be ready in a few days. The issue is limited to 5,000, 000. They are sold for half a crown and a shilling. Booksellers distribute them to the public, since the Postoffice declines to do so. Thanks largely to the Duke of York, philatelists have decided to recognize the new commemorative stamps, though their first impulse was to treat
it as not a stamp, but a token.

WANTS ABOLITION.

WASHINGTON, May 6.—Senator
Bacon of Georgia has introduced a joint resolution declaratory of the policy of the United States in favor of the abrogation of international differences.

For Greater New York.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 5.—Governor
Black affixed his signature to the Greater New York charter today.

ON ANNEXATION

How the Situation is Viewed in Washington.

POLITICAL ASPECT PARAMOUNT

Asiatic Population a Drawback.

President Determined to Carry Out Policy of Control of Hawaii.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 5.—The publication yesterday of the Senate

up and the annexation matter separately, whenever the President suggests action.

The whole situation discloses the fact that for 20 years the Hawaiian community has been sowing a good deal of wind, and has now to deal with the whirlwind. The islands have been steadily filled with the Asiatics, while not an hour has been devoted to the question or to what the political effect would be. "After us the deluge" has been the unconscious maxim of all parties. The men who manage the sugar beet interests are thoroughly familiar with the internal affairs of the islands, as well as he who walks the streets of Honolulu.

The administration is confronted with two difficulties. First, the sentiment against taking distant territory. This largely prevails among the scholars and reading men; and, second, the perplexing question of taking a territory "inundated" with Asiatics, in sight. This question is mainly considered by the farmers and laborers of the West. The people of Hawaii may choose to suppress discussions of these points, but they are at the front here. Congress will deal with well-known facts. The statesmen believe that the time has come to either take the islands or reverse the policy of years and cut loose from it, and throw away the grapple hooks of reciprocity. They prefer to take the islands in some way, and will make every effort to control them, but reciprocity has worked against them, through the Asiatic forces. Although the official representatives of the Government have worked with the utmost diligence, a vast amount of work has not been done, which should have been done during the past two years, which officials are not in a situation to undertake.

It is unfortunate, of course, that the tariff matter complicates the situation. It cannot be helped. Possibly, the debate on the reciprocity clause of the tariff bill may lead to something important and valuable in the Hawaiian interests.

The attitude of Senator Perkins is arousing the anger of the merchants of San Francisco in a way which must astonish the Senator. Those merchants will not submit to a great loss without a vigorous fight. Now that he has forewarned them of his hostile attitude, they are handling him without gloves, and with great energy. His friends here believe that he has made an honest mistake in his views of the case, owing to the increasing importance of the sugar beet industry, but hope that his vote will be cast on the right side when it is needed.

THE PRESIDENT'S POLICY.

It is quite certain that the President is determined to carry out the policy of the control of Hawaii, but has not yet settled on the method. The trend of debate in the Senate will influence him to some extent. Deeply interested as he is in the matter, he still considers the tariff matter the real question of the hour, and he is unwilling to recommend new matter until that is actually disposed of, so he can see daylight. Delay in action of the Senate Committee ends the Hawaiian cause in one way. It results in the disposition of Senators to preserve the reciprocity provision in the tariff.

The position of Mr. Thurston regarding the Japanese relations has been incorrectly stated in the editorial columns of the Advertiser. He has not charged that the Japanese Government is pressing emigration to Hawaii, or has any ulterior purposes in permitting the recent large emigration to that place. He has simply stated the fact that this emigration may involve serious consequences, owing to its large proportions.

The reports received today of the action of the Japanese newspapers, in advocating strong measures towards Hawaii attracts the attention of Congress and indicates that the Japanese people are urging their own Government to extreme measures. They demand that Hawaii shall not be left to designate who its citizens and residents may be. This is a rule rejected by civilized States, especially by the United States. The clamor of these papers for the inundation of the islands with Asiatics compels the close attention of men who study the foreign relations of the country. A fact is often the blow of a sledge hammer. A powerful reason strikes like a feather pillow.

The opponents of Hawaii are now mustering their forces. Mr. Oxnard has evidently organized the sugar beet interests in many States with great care, and in several publications, shows that he is intelligent, perhaps unscrupulous, and exceedingly industrious. He is making a "house-to-house canvass" among Congressmen, and induces the press that is friendly to Hawaii to give him space for his statements. The Washington Post has declared bitter war against Hawaii in the interests of the Sugar Trust, it is said. It takes the ground that the United States has paid for permanent rights in Pearl Harbor, and these rights now exist, without regard to the treaty. In this way, it disposes of the "control" question.

As indicating the general ignorance on the subject of the relations of the Sugar Trust to Hawaii, it may be said that many intelligent people here believe that the trust and the Hawaiians are allies. Mr. Oxnard's attacks on Hawaii will remove that ignorance.

RESOLUTION FROM STOCKTON.

How the Petition Against the Hawaiian Treaty Was Adopted.

STOCKTON, May 5.—The citizens of Stockton learned for the first time this evening that the Commercial Association had passed resolutions favorable to the prayers for the abrogation of the reciprocity clause of the Hawaiian sugar treaty. It appears that President Buell, who is generally considered "Spreckels' man" here, managed the matter very quickly, and while the petitions, if sent to Congress, will appear with the Commercial Association of Stockton is among the bodies favorable to abrogation, the manner in which the incident was gained has caused some talk.

It seems that the president waited till all likely to oppose the indorsement had gone and then went into executive session with only nine members present. He had no trouble in getting the resolutions favorable to the annulment of the reciprocity treaty passed. Today he went to San Francisco, where it is supposed the resolutions passed will be delivered to those who are managing the sugar people's campaign.

There are those here who would strongly oppose the resolutions, but they were put through without a chance being given for an open discussion. When the officers certify to the sense of the Commercial Association it will mean that but nine members out of over 100 voted for the resolution.

COMMISSIONER HAS POWER.

New Ruling on San Francisco Chinese Immigration.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 11.—District Judge Morrow rendered an important decision yesterday in the appeal of Wong Fock, who had been ordered deported by a United States Commissioner for not having a certificate entitling him to remain in this country. Wong claimed that a United States Judge must make out the order of deportation and, therefore, he was illegally in custody and should be released, as he has been ordered deported by a commissioner.

When the matter of the writ of habeas corpus came up before Commissioner Heacock he decided that a commissioner had jurisdiction according to the law and ordered Wong Fock remanded. An appeal was taken to Judge Morrow, who rendered a decision sustaining Commissioner Heacock.

Judge Morrow also handed down a decision in the case Tsu Tse Mee to the same effect as in the Wong Fock case. The result of these decisions will be the immediate deportation of several Chinese that have been held here awaiting Judge Morrow's opinion.

Commissioner Heacock passed on the cases of Quong Fung, Ah Jau and Wong Sing yesterday afternoon and ordered them all deported.

TROUBLE OVER JAPANESE.

A Number of Orientals Warned to Leave Everett, Wash.

TACOMA (Wash.), May 9.—A dispatch from Everett says that several hundred workmen from the smelter, nail works, paper mill and sawmills there met last evening and determined not to allow twenty Japanese laborers to go to work Monday night on the night shift at the Everett Box Factory. The meeting appointed a committee, which went to the Japanese boarding-house and notified them of the action taken. The Japanese referred the committee to the proprietor of the box factory, and also stated that they would have to consult with Japanese Consul Saito at Tacoma before they could give any answer.

Later in the evening they were told to leave the city by Monday night. This they do not intend to do unless Consul Saito advises. They think they are being treated unjustly and hope a Japanese war ship will be sent to Puget sound to protect their rights. Consul Saito cannot be seen tonight, having gone to Seattle to meet the officers of a Japanese steamship there. Tomorrow a representative of the Everett Japanese will confer with him.

RESIGNATION NOT ACCEPTED.

For the Present Hohenzollern Will Remain

The resignation of the Imperial Chancellor, Prince Hohenzollern, and the Minister for Foreign Affairs, Baron Marschall von Bieberstein, have been in the hands of the Emperor for weeks, but no action has yet been taken. On Wednesday his majesty had a long conversation with Prince Hohenzollern, and later he received Baron Marschall von Bieberstein. Upon this occasion the foreign, domestic and political situations were discussed. The international troubles, the Prussian law associations and the military tariff bills were discussed, but no agreement was reached. Just for the moment it is certain that the present Cabinet will retain its post. Both Prince Hohenzollern and Baron Marschall von Bieberstein will wait for a more opportune moment to press their resignations.

CHAPMAN MUST APOLOGIZE.

The President Advises the Pardon-Seeking Sugar Trust Witness.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The friends of Elverson R. Chapman of New York, the recalcitrant witness in the sugar trust investigation, have submitted to the President a petition for clemency, course of action which should be followed preliminary to any executive action.

It is understood that this is in the nature of an apology or retraction for the course which had placed him in the attitude of a contumacious witness. It is not stated positively what the President will do should the course of action suggested be pursued, but it is felt that Chapman's prospects of a pardon are materially improved.

CHANGES IN NICARAGUA LAWS.

The Export Tax on Bananas to Be Suspended.

MANAGUA, May 9.—President Zelaya has signed the law abolishing capital punishment after July 1st.

Nicaragua is about to establish a postal package service under the treaty with Germany signed last February. The rate of 15 grammes will be 80 cents in gold, and on fractional excesses 10 cents. Money, watches, jewelry and such importations as are prohibited by law will be excluded from the service.

The tax on exported bananas will be suspended from and after July 1st next.

LI HUNG CHANG'S TRIBUTE.

NEW YORK, May 7.—Yang Yu, former Minister of China to the United States, who is now special representative from China to the court of St. Petersburg, planted a tree this afternoon in the ground under which the casket of General Grant lay for twelve years as a tribute to the memory of the great soldier by Li Hung Chang.

China Question Again.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—There is no certainty as to the time of proceeding in the Senate during the week. The Morgan Cuban resolution probably will be taken up Monday, and it may lead to a prolonged and spirited debate. Senator Morgan is determined to press the resolution to an issue, and Senator Hale is just as determined to prevent its passage. Hale undoubtedly will move to refer the resolution to the Committee on Foreign Relations, and an effort will be made to enlist the friends of the Administration against it.

EFFECT IN ENGLAND.

Defeat of Arbitration Treaty Excites Bitter Comment

LONDON, May 8.—The rejection of the arbitration treaty by the United States Senate has been received with much disappointment here and many hard things are being said about American politicians. The weekly newspapers indulge in caustic comments on the subject.

The Saturday Review says: "If it has done nothing more, the disposition of this unhappy measure has opened the eyes of many Englishmen to the bitter feelings entertained against this country by a large section of the Americans and constantly fomented by a large section of the American press."

The Spectator remarks: "The failure of the treaty, rightly or wrongly, will be regarded as a sign that America does not want a position of permanent friendliness with the old country. The result is deplorable, but it is no good to blink at the fact."

The Daily Chronicle uses the rejection of the treaty as a peg upon which to hang a rabid denunciation of the Marquis of Salisbury's Premiership, which it says "represents a record of failure almost unparalleled in the history of England," adding: "England hardly sank so low in the evil days of the Stuarts."

PARIS MOURNS.

Horrible Results of Fire at Grand Bazaar.

PARIS, May 5.—The terrible fire at the Grand Bazaar de Charite, a temporary wooden structure 100 yards long, 60 yards wide, erected in the Rue Jean Goujon for an annual charity fair, of which all the most prominent society ladies of Paris are patronesses, has thrown the French capital into mourning.

The conflagration, which broke out shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday in the Kinetograph booth, near the stall of the Duchesse D'Uzes, while 1,500 to 2,000 were present, is believed to have caused the loss of over 200 lives. As this dispatch is sent, early Wednesday morning, 111 charred corpses have been recovered, together with 12 portions of bodies, the identity of which may never be established.

FIELDS'S SUCCESSOR.

They Now Say It Will be Goff of West Virginia.

RICHMOND, Va., May 5.—It is learned upon good authority here that Justice Field of California, one of the Associate Justices of the United States Supreme Court, will shortly resign, and Nathan Goff of West Virginia, the oldest United States Circuit Judge, will be appointed in his stead. Should this plan be carried out, it is claimed that Judge Edmund Waddill, Jr., of this city, will be given Judge Goff's place.

FRANCO-GERMAN RELATIONS.

Prince Radzwill Said to Have a Mission.

LONDON, May 10.—The Daily Mail's correspondent at Paris says: It is reported that Prince Radzwill, who represented Emperor William at the funeral services, held in the Cathedral of Notre Dame in Paris for the victims of the charity bazaar fire, has a mission to improve the relations between France and Germany.

TO DETERMINE THE BOUNDARY.

Nicaraguan and Costa Rican Commissioners to Confer.

MANAGUA (Nicaragua), May 7.—The Nicaraguan commission of engineers has started for Greytown to meet there the Costa Rica commissioners, and then, with Mr. Alexander, Cleveland's former appointee as arbitrator, to determine the boundary line between the two States.

Smallpox in Quarantine.

PORT TOWNSEND (Wash.), May 10.—A tug which arrived here this evening from the neighborhood of William's Head, the British Columbia quarantine station, brings word that twenty new cases of smallpox have developed in the last thirty-six hours among the Chinese brought over by the Empress of China on her last trip.

As there are 800 Chinese in quarantine, the quarters are very much crowded. Further development of the disease is probable, although every effort is being made to suppress it.

Michigan Forest Fires.

DULUTH, Minn., May 5.—Forest fires are raging unabated in this part of Minnesota and they are dangerously near this city. The Fire Department has been called out. The pesthouse and the poorhouse caught fire twice during the day, but the flames were conquered by the firemen before much damage was done. Three houses on the outskirts of the city were destroyed.

Peru Coins Silver Coinage.

CHICAGO, May 9.—The Times-Herald's Washington special says: The Peruvian Government, after May 10th, will cease the coinage of silver and will permit the importation of any silver coin. Director Preston of the United States Mint was officially advised to this effect today.

Money for the War.

MADRID, May 9.—The Queen Regent has issued a decree authorizing the raising of $8,000,000, to be secured by the customs duties of Spain, to meet the cost of military operations in Cuba and the Philippine Islands. The Bank of Spain will undertake the issue.

New Chinese Officials.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4.—The Evening Post says this afternoon that the new Consul-General for China at San Francisco will be Yu Shi Yi, and the local Consul will be Chang Ien Tong, both being now en route from China. Yi, who was formerly Consul-General at Honolulu and at Havana, will have charge of all Chinese affairs on the Pacific Coast.

Alert Will Escort Her.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The little steamer Pinta, which has served for many years as a gunboat in Alaskan waters, has been ordered home to Mare Island. She has outlived her usefulness and to insure a safe voyage down the coast the Alert has been ordered from San Francisco to Sitka to convoy the Pinta.

To New York for Memorial Day.

NEW YORK, May 10.—The committee in charge of the Memorial day exercise today received a telegram from President McKinley accepting the invitation to come to New York and take part in the ceremonies.

President Faure's Trip Abandoned.

LONDON, May 10.—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Berlin says the Tageblatt is authorized to announce that M. Faure's proposed visit to St. Petersburg has been abandoned.

Hohenlohe's Resignation Denied.

BERLIN, May 5.—It is semi-officially denied that the Imperial Chancellor, Prince Hohenlohe, has resigned. The Prince was received in audience this morning by the Emperor.

OXNARD SPEAKS

He Questions the Motives of the Hawaiian Planters.

CRITICISES THIS GOVERNMENT

Beet Sugar Men Are Well Organized.

Hawaii Raised a War Scare to Excite Sympathy of United States.

What the beet sugar men think of the Dingley tariff bill in so far as it concerns Hawaii, and annexation may be judged from the following article in the Washington Post:

A representative of The Post recently obtained an interview with Mr. Henry Oxnard, who represents here the beet sugar industry, and the conversation developed an interesting condition of things.

"In what way, Mr. Oxnard, would the annexation of Hawaii, and how does the existing treaty with the Islands, affect our revenues and domestic sugar production?"

"Before that question is answered, the situation of our domestic producers should be considered. Prior to 1890, the duty on sugar has been very liberal. The McKinley law made sugar conditionally 'free,' but gave our producers a bounty in lieu of the duty, to encourage and protect them, less, however, than the duty it displaced by from one-half to 1½ cents a pound. In August, 1894, the bounty was suddenly repealed and sugar received under the 40 per cent. rate of duty about 1 cent of protection, reduced by foreign export sugar bounties to, say three-quarters of a cent only. And that is the present situation. We are now menaced by 'free' sugar from Hawaii, and cheap bounty-fed sugars from Europe. Free sugar from Hawaii amounts, to all intents and purposes, to a bounty on that sugar, and is discrimination against other foreign sugar. There really is little or no protection for domestic sugar in the present law, because it costs us so much more to make sugar than it does abroad, where there is ample cheap labor and material, and where the industry is long established.

"In the Dingley bill there is some protection for sugar, but not sufficient encouragement to invest additional capital, and that ought to be an objective point in the next sugar schedule. In fact, the Republicans at St. Louis promised it. One of its resolutions read: 'The Republican Party favors such protection as will lead to the production on American soil of all the sugar which the American people use, and for which they pay other countries more than $100,000,000 annually.'

"Are you anticipating that Congress will liquidate that promise?"

"I doubt very much whether the result can be reached without an exercise of more liberality than is shown in the Dingley bill. We have assumed, of course, that the St. Louis resolution was a sincere expression of party policy, and our sugar producers are urging upon the majority a test of sincerity. Present conditions, therefore, enable us to see more how the Hawaiian treaty affects domestic sugar production. Manufacturers of domestic sugar and our beet growers are unalterably opposed to a continuance of that treaty, now that eighteen years have elapsed since it was made."

BET SUGAR MEN ORGANIZED.

"Are the domestic sugar interests organized in any way, and to what extent?"

"Yes, fully organized. As President of the American Beet Sugar Association, I represent, directly and indirectly, thousands of farmers, and the domestic manufacturers as well, and they are co-operating with the 'American Sugar Growers' Society,' which has auxiliary clubs all over the country, while in Louisiana and Texas there are two powerful sugar organizations. As an evidence of the strength of these agricultural clubs, there are at least 30 at different points in Illinois, as many in Ohio, Indiana, Minnesota, Iowa, and Nebraska, with many in Oregon, Virginia, Pennsylvania, North Carolina and very many more in New York, Michigan and other States. This force is a compact body, fully advised how inimical the Hawaiian treaty is to their interests, while the labor organizations of the country are also opposed to the treaty, because the average Hawaiian planter employs contract labor to make sugar, which comes in free to compete with well-paid labor in field and factory in the United States."

"How does the yield of sugar in Hawaii compare with the yield in the United States?"

"Hawaii has a great advantage in that also. I have here an extract from a recent letter to a Washington paper, from Honolulu, in which the writer says:

"In full view of our city, 12 miles away as the bird flies, 126 acres of sugar cane have lately been cut and ground, yielding an average of slightly over 11 tons of raw sugar to the acre. Has such a yield ever been approximated in any other country? I believe that the average yield on plantations on all our plantations is between 4 and 5 tons. One and a half tons in Louisiana is a heavy yield."

"How have these labor and productive factors affected the United States?"

"In the first place, our Treasury has lost about $60,000,000 of revenue. The Hawaiian sugar planters did not need that bounty. The fertility of their soil and their coolie labor were ample advantages. The original treaty was announced in Congress as a 'job' and it is certainly operating very injuriously on our domestic sugar industry. It has run about three years beyond the time specified, and we are especially entitled to be relieved from its operation at this time, because Hawaii can export about 4,000,000 pounds, or sufficient to furnish all the sugar that the Pacific Coast and other States west of the Mississippi River require, and it thus enters into sharp competition on unequal terms with our domestic product and has frequently deprived us of our own local markets. Our domestic producers have cheap sugar from Germany on one side, and free sugar from Hawaii on the other, and the contest is too unequal. Unless we have substantial relief, domestic sugar production is doomed."

FEAR OF TREATY ABOGATION.

"What are the advantages under this treaty?"

"There are none. Some have been manufactured for the special use of the Hawaiian Annexation Club, located here. For instance, Hawaii took from us a million dollars' worth more of products in 1890 than she did in 1895. Our export trade with her was no greater in 1895 than in 1893 while her free exports to us, mostly sugar, have increased enormously. If we should make Hawaii a present of all our exports and a million dollars besides, it would only balance what we remit to her annually in duty on her sugar."

"Why is annexation being pressed so vigorously at this time?"

"Well, the incentive behind that is found principally in the fear which the Hawaiian sugar planters have that the treaty may be abrogated. Of course annexation in any form would allow Hawaiian sugar to come in free for all time, and that is the real point with those here who compose the Annexation Club. As long ago as 1872 Gen. Schofield, who was sent to Hawaii to investigate matters, said:

"The great object of the Hawaiian government in seeking a reciprocity treaty with the United States has been, and will probably continue to be, to relieve its sugar planters from the operation of our tariff on that article. The cession of Pearl River harbor could probably be obtained by the United States in consideration of the repeal of the duty on Sandwich Island sugar. Indeed, the Hawaiian sugar planters are anxious for a reciprocity treaty, or so anxious rather for free trade in sugar with the United States, that many of them openly proclaim themselves in favor of the annexation of these islands to the United States."

"And he further said: 'The cession of Pearl River harbor is an equivalent for free trade (in sugar with the United States) is freely discussed and favorably considered by the Hawaiian government.'"

"Was Pearl River harbor granted?"

"No, not in the original treaty; but before our Senate would consent to extend the treaty for seven years Mr. Edmunds caused to be inserted a separate article (2), whereby Hawaii granted that harbor to us, and if it did not become ours then absolutely it certainly will twelve months after notice is given of the abrogation of the treaty."

"But it is urged that the United States needs Hawaii as an outpost."

"Oh, yes, I know. That idea has been worked up here, but it simply covers the free sugar gentleman in the wood pile. Why, Mr. Garfield opposed annexation, and he gave unanswerable reasons for it. We have Pearl River harbor, and it commands the Pacific and covers Honolulu, and every nation well understands that our policy toward Hawaii is that which was laid down in the agreement entered into by England and France in 1843, whereby they agreed 'never to take possession (of Hawaii), directly nor under the title of protectorate, or under any other form, of any part of the territory of which the Sandwich Islands are composed.' How can we consistently and honorably protest against the interference of other governments as yet seek the annexation of these islands ourselves? And especially as two-thirds of the people are disfranchised in favor of a sugar planters' oligarchy."

EXPLODES THE JAPAN BUBBLE.

"But it is said, Mr. Oxnard, that there is apprehended danger that Japan will absorb these islands."

"That, sir, is a mere scarecrow manufactured by the sugar planters in Hawaii and their agents in the United States. Peel off the annexation cuticle and you will find free sugar. It deceives nobody. The policy of the United States toward Hawaii has very recently been expressed in Congress in the following resolution: 'That of right it belongs wholly to the people of the Hawaiian Islands to establish and maintain their own form of government and domestic policy; that the United States ought in nowise to interfere therewith, and that any intervention by any other government will be regarded as an act unfriendly to the United States.'

"The whole world knows our policy toward Hawaii, and there isn't a nation that cares to or dares interfere with Hawaii. All this talk about Japan is sensation, to build up a scare to force annexation and thus obtain free sugar forever after. A recent dispatch to a New York paper, from Washington, exploded this Japan scare bubble. It said:

"The disquieting advices received from Hawaii are not given any serious consideration by the officials of the Japanese Legation here. It is held to be the policy of the Dole government and its representatives in this city, who favor immediate annexation, to take full advantage of the fact that the immigration of coolies is on the increase, and that in consequence Japan will soon obtain control of the Islands. It is denied by the representatives of that government that Japan desires to take possession of Hawaii, and the intimation is given that annexation would be refused if sought."

"And in this connection it is of some interest to note that in a letter, April 25, 1893, from Mr. Wilcox to our Commissioner to Hawaii, he embodied a statement of the appropriations made by Hawaii to encourage emigration to the island, the total amount from 1874 to and including 1890 being $1,315,000. Sixty thousand dollars were appropriated therefor in 1890. He states that nine-tenths of the whole sum was spent to encourage Chinese and Japanese! More recently the Legislature limited the coming of Chinese to 5,000 per annum, 'the Japanese being substituted for them.' In other words, these few Hawaiian sugar planters, with their pocket gorged with money which should be in our Treasury, having brought upon themselves for selfish purposes a certain condition from Japanese immigration to obtain coolie labor, and discriminating it favor of it and continuing it by law, they want the United States to protect them against their own avaricious policy."

"Is it true, as reported in a New York paper, that the Sugar Trust is attempting to buy up your beet sugar factories?"

"No, sir; there isn't a word of truth in it. It is a story set afloat by the Hawaiian planters and agents of the trust to prejudice our interest in the pending tariff bill. The trust does not want to develop the domestic sugar industry and hence a continuance of the treaty, or free sugar, is just what it desires. Besides, in its contract with the Hawaiian planters, the Trust has an advantage of over $1,000,000 yearly, and it wants to keep it."

WHITE MAN WORK.

Retired Plantation Man Tells His Experience.

"When I was a boy, 15 years old," said a prominent Honolulu merchant, yesterday, "I went to work on a farm in Missouri and mighty hard work it was. At 19, I came to Hawaii and went to work on a sugar plantation and continued from the position of laborer at a few dollars a month until after awhile I was made an under luna."

"I never saw in all of my experience on the plantation quite halt as much hard work as was done on that Missouri farm. Take the plantation carpenters, for instance, why there wasn't one of them who thought of repairing a fence unless they had a half dozen Kanakas to carry the nails and hold up the board. The work of the laborers on plantations in Hawaii is not so hard as it is on the average farm in the States and the hours not as long as they are during harvest time."

"The white laborers who are expected at Ewa within a few months will find, from all accounts, better quarters and easier work than they have been used to in the States, and at the end of their planting contract they should be earning at least $50 a month each. Much will depend upon the character of the men sent down but as Mr. Fitzgerald has had it pretty thoroughly drilled into him that the men who come here shall be able bodied and of a moral character that will guarantee their not spending the first two or three days after they get their pay, in the saloons. I know how it used to be; Monday was always considered 'Blue Monday' and it was next to impossible to get any work out of the men. This has all changed now and men do better work."

"The new men are not to come until the planting season begins again, say two or three months, then they will begin work in earnestly and I believe they will be the advance guard to a large number of white laborers or planters who will settle in Hawaii."

J. W. Luning has been made a member of the Executive Committee of the Amusement Company, vice F. M. Swanzy, resigned.

MR. THURSTON'S ARGUMENT.

Mr. Thurston's statement of reasons why the Reciprocity Treaty with the United States should not be abrogated is one of the most complete financial reviews of American trade with this country that has ever been published. The most interesting feature is the portion devoted to the argument, that, while the figures usually quoted give a large balance of trade for Hawaii, as a matter of fact the United States reaps the larger benefit.

Mr. Thurston takes the totals for exports from the United States, and Hawaii exports for the period beginning June 30, 1876, and ending June 30, 1896. The apparent balance of trade against the United States is $104,277,035. He then shows that these figures do not express the true balance, since "by reason of the treaty, the value of Hawaiian sugar is the world's price of sugar, plus the duty levied by the United States. Raw sugar from a country subject to the tariff is invoiced at the point of shipment at a price which does not include the United States duty." Hence Mr. Thurston argues that in making comparisons to secure the true balance of trade, the amount of duties remitted by the United States should be subtracted from the custom house figures of exports from Hawaii to the United States. Making this deduction the apparent balance of trade in favor of Hawaii is reduced to $48,377,794.

Then comes the question into whose pocket this $48,377,794 has gone. "If it has become the property of Hawaii and Hawaiians the contention of the opponents of the Treaty is good. If it has become the property of the United States and United States citizens the contention falls to the ground." To prove that the money has enriched American citizens a table is given showing that Hawaii has paid to American shipping for freights $16,094,107; to American Commission Merchants handling island products $4,464,253; to American shipbuilders constructing vessels for Hawaiian foreign and inter-island trade, profits amounting to $466,917; to American insurance companies for premiums collected $3,847,136; to American holders of sugar securities profits amounting to $20,861,539; to American mercantile firms a ten per cent. profit on goods sold in Hawaii $6,517,444, making the total profits "derived by the United States and its citizens, by reason of the treaty, which do not appear by the custom house records" $52,251,396. Comparing these figures with the apparent balance of trade against the United States we find an actual balance in favor of the United States amounting to $3,873,794. In addition to this Americans have acquired property, in Hawaii and in ships engaged in Hawaiian carrying trade, valued at $43,731,544.

While Mr. Thurston may be savagely attacked on his method of proving the balance of trade in favor of the United States, his most bitter opponent cannot fail to appreciate the immense business, strictly American, that the Reciprocity Treaty has fostered. The abrogation of the Treaty will strike as hard if not a harder blow at American interests as Hawaiian.

WHITE LABOR ARGUMENT.

In the discussion of white labor for Hawaii the conditions in Queensland have often been referred to. That our planters may not run away with the idea that white labor in sugar cane fields is a snare and delusion, we quote the following from an article on "The Industrial Expansion in Queensland" published by the Westminster Review:

"By far the most important branch of the agricultural industry in Queensland is sugar growing. Since Miss Shaw, the Special Commissioner of the Times inquired into the sugar industry here, the conditions have very much altered. Her opinion that North Queensland would in the future have a white autoeratic planter population, and a black servile race to do the tropical field work, is not supported by recent developments. A large number of the big plantations are broken up into small farms of about eighty acres each, and sold at easy terms to the white farmers.

"Where a few years ago there was a large plantation worked by South Sea Islanders, there are now twenty or thirty comfortable homesteads. And the contention that white European labor could not stand the field work is blown into thin air by the practical experience of thousands of white workers all along the Coast.

"The black labor question is settling itself; it is only a matter of time until the sugar industry can entirely do away with Kanaka labor. The sugar farmers are doing well, and during the financial crisis, when the prospects of most colonies looked black, the prosperity of those engaged in the sugar and mining industries pulled the Colony through. The annual output of sugar is 100,000 tons.

"If the government would only initiate a practical immigration scheme, similar to the Canadian, and set apart some of these runs for the settlement of European farmers, then take a paternal interest in their welfare, giving their good land at a nominal cost and cheap money to make a start, we should soon have a healthy flow of new blood from the old countries. Until we have closer settlement and denser population we cannot feel secure from Asiatic aggression."

TROUBLES IN BRAZIL.

The troubles in Brazil of which occasional rumors are circulated in the public press bear watching by those interested in the progress of republican institutions. To all appearances the United States of Brazil seems to have settled down to the usual condition of South American republics, although the sharp censorship upon the press, according to the Literary Digest, keeps the general public in ignorance of the real phases of the struggle. The insurrection now on foot in the province of Bahia is referred to as the work of fanatics led by a false Christ. This is the government's statement of the case. As a matter of fact however, the struggle is between the republican and royalist forces. The latter have not given up the idea that restoration is possible. The rebels are led by a former colonel of the Brazilian army, and they display their dislike for the Republic by destroying the notes issued by the Republic and issuing money on which appears the picture of the ex emperor.

The correspondent of a German paper is authority for the statement that the Monarchists are receiving large sums of money from Europe and a general Monarchist uprising is prophesied. This correspondent says: "The masses in Brazil are anything but satisfied with the reality resulting from their dreams of republican government. The poor and the working-men can not but compare their former state with the present. When Brazil was an empire, Brazilian money stood above par. The Brazilians then used to make fun of 'Pedro Banana,' i. e. 'Soft Pedro,' who allowed the people to walk all over him. The Republican rules find it difficult to convince the people that a tolerably efficient staff of officials and a prosperous empire had to be destroyed for the sake of a principle."

The republican leaders in Brazil are finding the difficulty encountered in nearly every South American nation where the people have been brought up in the customs of monarchical rule. The common people have, as a rule, the Irishman's idea of a "free country"—where a man can do as he pleases—and finding that law and order must still be maintained, they draw the thoughtless conclusion that the old form is better than the new. The Brazilian leaders find that they must "hold down the situation," meanwhile trusting to slow working educational forces to accomplish the necessary changes in the public mind which will finally result in a progressive and united nation where the power of brains and the ballot is placed above temper, prejudice and powder and bullet.

We trust that our good citizens will have the good judgment to refrain from caustic assertions of what this country will do if the Hawaiian sugar clause of the tariff bill is stricken out. The people of Hawaii must remember that there is not a single statesman in the United States who can be frightened by threats of what Hawaii will do. They must remember that Hawaii is a little fellow, the underdog in the fight, and bristle up as it may it cannot cause an unusual fright in Uncle Sam's official household. The United States is the market for our staple product and will doubtless continue to be whatever the result of the tariff discussion. We may talk of an industrial alliance with other countries as much as we please, but we cannot get away from the fact that the United States is the leading sugar market, that Great Britain and her dependencies have industrial depression and sugar troubles of their own to look after. One has but to read the conclusions drawn from the investigation in British Guiana to be convinced that Hawaii cannot expect special favors from British possessions. Our cause cannot be assisted by threats or scares. If the United States wants Hawaii it will take Hawaii; if the United States wants to hold Hawaii at arm's length, at the same time preventing other nations from taking a hand in our affairs, we have no redress. The United States will do as it pleases and Hawaii must accept the consequences.

Although the election of Senator Deboe in Kentucky gives the Republicans of the United States Senate an additional vote and a nominal majority of one the situation is such that a fight on party lines is impossible. The election of Deboe makes the total membership of the Senate eighty-eight composed of forty-three Republicans, thirty-three Democrats, and twelve Populists and silver Republicans. With Kyle the Republicans would have forty-four, a tie, and with the Vice-President, a majority of one. But the difficulty does not end there. The possibility of a party vote, it is believed, would hurry up the Florida legislature and secure the election of a Democrat from that State, thus ruining the Republican majority, and giving the opposition enough votes to kill the tariff bill if they saw fit.

Since the death of Congressman Milliken of Maine, the American public has been watching with interest to see who will be selected to fill the gap in the delegation from Maine and represent the district where James G. Blaine secured his first political honors. It is now practically settled that ex Governor Burleigh of Augusta will be the man. He gave Milliken a hard rub for the nomination in 1892 and is consequently regarded as the logical candidate. Burleigh has an enviable record. He started out as a poor boy and worked his way into the hearts of the people as a champion of "honest politics." As owner of the Kennebec Journal he has in a way followed in the pathway of his illustrious predecessor, Mr. Blaine. Hawaii's particular interest in Mr. Burleigh is that he is not only interested in the country but is known as an ardent annexationist. He is not an orator, but has a reputation as a political "worker" who by constant and judicious man-to-man canvassing usually accomplished what he once sets out to do.

The organ of the Sons of the American Revolution referring to an article published in this paper from the text "And hath made of one blood all nations of men," says: "It is always interesting to note how one's views of religion are modified by his standpoint, and how opinions concerning the going of oxen depend upon the ownership of the cattle." It is very unchristian for Americans to cherish memories of their war with England; but it is not unchristian or unmanly for England to join the concert of all the powers of Europe to coerce little Greece and to support the Turkish assassin in his wholesale murder of Christians. When England rallies around the flag of Jerusalem in the sense in which the Pacific Commercial Advertiser uses the term, we will promise that the Sons of the American Revolution, the Sons of the Revolution, and all other similar American Societies, smitten in conscience, will throw up their charters and go out of existence.

The questions asked by our correspondent "Civis" represent the question marks in the minds of many of our citizens today, particularly regarding the method of dealing with the tax law. The public is at loss to know by what authority the Executive Council sets aside any portion of a law for one year. If a law is unconstitutional, or if a department of the Government has misinterpreted the law, the natural supposition is that the Supreme Court, not the Executive Council, is the department which should issue the final edict. The citizens of the Hawaiian Republic are not as a rule legal experts and should be dealt with accordingly. It is but fair that they should be given a more complete explanation of the action of the Executive than is contained in the letter of the Minister of Finance to the complaining merchants.

Two piles of plaster and stone have decorated the rear entrance of the Judiciary Building for several months. Whether these are monuments to improvements once made or evidences of monumental procrastination we are unable to state, but the people taking pride in the appearance of our public buildings are quite positive the time has arrived when the department whose business it is to look after such things should clear away the rubbish.

During W. R. Castle's term of office as Hawaiian Minister in Washington he prepared a digest of the "various annexations of foreign territory made by the United States." The work has been published in pamphlet form for distribution. By legal authorities it is spoken of as one of the most concise and able documents that has ever been prepared on the subject.

In view of the trend of public discussion we believe it would be a wise move on the part of the Government to explain on what grounds any portion of the tax law passed by the Legislature is set aside. At first sight such action on the part of the Executive appears decidedly arbitrary. The opinions of the average man are governed by first impressions.

We again call the attention of our readers to the article on white labor in Queensland. Those who have read it previously should read it again and then memorize it.

HAWAII JOURNAL.

The whole thing is one grand speculation in human rights for wealth, office and power. They tell us that the people are almost unanimous for annexation. This may well be believed; anything that would give them relief from the burden of the oligarchy now in control would be welcome. The present Government is on the ragged edge and in daily dread of an outbreak from some quarter. The different nationalities among the population are jealous of each other, and there is no mutual trust or reliance among them. If there were any, the present state of affairs could not continue a day. And this conglomeration of evils is what Mr. Spaulding and jingoes would make out of hand into a State of the Union. What is wanted in this movement? Another Nevada, with improvements of the most modern kind, to be bought and owned for political purposes in a Senate already in disgrace for its political corruption. New Mexico and Arizona are a paradise of intelligence and political virtue beside this proposed acquisition, yet we hold them off. If Hawaii is to be annexed, it should come in as a county within a State already organized, or at the very best as a territory. The proposition to make it into a State is corrupt in its inception, disgraceful in its execution, and wholly at variance with good policy and fairness to the States of this Union.—Journal, Milwaukee, Wis.

The fate of the plucky little republic of Hawaii will probably be settled within a year. It is beset with many difficulties and now that an administration which was notoriously hostile to it has passed into history, the Hawaiian republic looks hopefully toward Washington with the belief that we will annex it, either as a territory or a state. The opportunity is afforded us of securing an important group of islands whose future under one government should be bright and prosperous, of getting the most strategic position in the Pacific, whence we could command the northern portion of that ocean without cost or serious trouble. Our decision cannot long be delayed for the situation as to Hawaii is reaching such a condition that we must annex the islands, assume a protectorate over them or leave them to be seized by Japan.—Union, Springfield, Mass.

The administration, it is very evident, is appreciative of the critical condition of affairs in Hawaii, caused by the contest to prevent the landing of more Japanese laborers, for in addition to the Philadelphia, the Marlon, which has been stationed there for some time, is to continue at Honolulu. What a happy solution of the difficulty the annexation of the islands would be.—Union, Springfield, Mass.

All the islands lying off our coasts which in time of war would be disadvantageous to us if in the hands of the enemy or neutrals should belong to us. Every island against whose appropriation by a new foreign power we would now protest should become ours. This is true of Cuba and the Hawaiian group.—Journal, New York.

The largest volcano in the world is at Mauna Loa, in the Sandwich Islands. The crater is 20 miles in diameter, and the stream of lava flowing it is 50 miles long, and, in places, four miles wide.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

M'KINLEY'S EULOGISM.

The President's Speech at the Tomb of General Grant.

At the dedication of the tomb of General Grant, in New York city, in April, President McKinley paid the following tribute to the life and deeds of the dead President:

"Fellow Citizens: "A great life, dedicated to the welfare of the Nation here finds its earthly coronation. Even if this day lacked the impressiveness of ceremony and was devoid of pageantry, it would still be memorable because it is the anniversary of the birth of one of the most famous and best-beloved of American soldiers. Architecture has paid high tribute to the leaders of mankind, but never was a memorial more worthily bestowed or more gratefully accepted by a free people than the beautiful structure before which we are gathered. In marking the successful completion of this work, we have as witnesses and participants, representatives of all branches of our Government, the resident officials of foreign nations, the Governors of States and the sovereign people from every section of our common country, who joined in this august tribute to the soldier, patriot and citizen.

"Almost 12 years have passed since the heroic vigil ended and the brave spirit of Ulysses S. Grant fearlessly took its flight. Lincoln and Stanton had preceded him, but of the mighty captains of the war Grant was the first to be called. Sherman and Sheridan survived him, but have since joined him on the other shore. The great heroes of the civil strife on land and sea are, for the most part, no more. Thomas and Hancock, Logan and McPherson, Farragut and Porter, and a host of others have passed forever from human sight. Those remaining grow dearer to us, and from them and the memory of those who have departed generations yet unborn will draw their inspiration and gather strength for patriotic purposes.

"A great life never dies. Great deeds are imperishable; great names are immortal. General Grant's services and character will continue undiminished and advance in the estimation of mankind so long as liberty remains the corner stone of free government and integrity of life the guarantee of good citizenship. Faithful and fearless as a volunteer soldier, intrepid and invincible as commander-in-chief of the armies of the Union, calm and confident as President of the reunited and strengthened Nation, which his genius had been instrumental in achieving, he has our homage and that of the world, but brilliant as was his public character, we love him all the more for his home life and homely virtues. His individuality, his bearing and speech; his simple ways had a flavor of rare and unique distinction, and his Americanism was so true and uncompromising that his name will stand for all time as the embodiment of liberty, loyalty and national unity.

"Victorious in the work which under Divine Providence he was called upon to do, clothed with almost limitless power, he was yet one of the people—patient, patriotic and just. Success did not disturb the even balance of his mind, while fame was powerless to swerve him from the path of duty. Great as he was in war, he loved peace and told the world that honorable arbitration of differences was the best hope of civilization. With Washington and Lincoln, Grant has an exalted place in history and in the affections of the people. Today his memory is held in equal esteem by those whom he led to victory and by those who accepted his generous terms of peace. Veteran leaders of the blue and gray here meet not only to honor the name of the departed Grant, but to testify to the living reality of a fraternal national spirit which has triumphed over differences past and transcended the limitations of sectional lines. Its completion, which we pray Godspeed, will be the Nation's greatest glory.

"It is right, then, that General Grant should have a memorial commensurate with his greatness, and that his last resting place should be the city of his choice, to which he was so attached in life, and of whose ties he was not forgetful even in death. Fitting, too, is it that the great soldier should sleep beside the river, on whose banks he first learned the art of war, of which he became master and leader without a rival.

"But let us not forget the glorious distinction with which the metropolis among the fair sisterhood of American cities has honored his life and memory. With all that riches and sculpture can do to render an edifice worthy of a man, upon a site unsurpassed for magnificence, has this monument been reared by New York as a perpetual record of his illustrious deeds, in the certainty that as time passes around it will assemble with gratitude and reverence and veneration men of all times, races and nationalities. New York holds in its keeping the precious dust of the silent soldier, but his achievements—that he and his brave comrades wrought for mankind—are in the keeping of seventy millions of American citizens, who will guard the sacred heritage forever and forever more."

ADMIRAL MILLER.

He Will Probably Go to England on the Brooklyn.

The Navy Department issued an order today modifying the original order to Admiral Miller to proceed to take command of the Pacific Station, so as to delay the execution of that order until further notice, says a recent Washington Star. The Admiral will be relieved of the command of the Boston Navy Yard as originally projected, but it is the present purpose to send him to England on the cruiser Brooklyn to represent the United States Navy on the occasion of the celebration of the Queen's Jubilee. The formal orders to that effect have not yet been issued, and this program is subject to modification, but as the British authorities have intimated that they would be pleased to have an officer of no lower grade than a Rear Admiral, Admiral Miller will almost certainly be sent, inasmuch as it may not be prudent in the present state of affairs in the Mediterranean to permit Admiral Selfridge, who commands the European Station, to leave those waters for some time to come.

Merit Talks

"Merit talks" the intrinsic value of Hood's Sarsaparilla. Merit in medicine means the power to cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla possesses actual and unequalled curative power and therefore it has true merit. When you buy Hood's Sarsaparilla, and take it according to directions, to purify your blood, or cure any of the many blood diseases, you are morally certain to receive benefit. The power to cure is there. You are not trying an experiment. It will make your blood pure, rich and nourishing, and thus drive out the germs of disease, strengthen the nerves and build up the whole system.

Severe Case of Dyspepsia
"I suffered from dyspepsia 20 years. I had a feeling as though there was a lump in my stomach. I did not dare to eat meat or warm bread, very few vegetables, for fear of the great distress food caused me. I experienced relief right after commencing to take Hood's Sarsaparilla. My appetite increased, I gained in general health and strength. I can eat almost anything now without discomfort. Although I had been an invalid for twenty years, I can truthfully say that I am better than for a long time. I never weighed so much in my life." Mrs. EMILY F. BUMP, 45 Portland Street, Middleboro, Mass.

ACTION OF GOVERNMENT ON TAXES

Quiet Methods of Procedure
Disliked.Why Not Notify Voters?—How Are Laws Set Aside.

MR. EDITOR:—No good can come from captions criticism of the administration; yet the average citizen has an indefeasible right to know that the policy pursued, or the measures adopted, have some solid basis of right and justice. The Legislature is not in session and there is no opportunity for inquiry and discussion, except through the columns of the daily paper, the ever open court for public investigation. No one would claim that ours is paternal Government, in which the discussion of public matters, and the investiture of responsibility, is placed unreservedly in the hands of the heads of the Government. Ours is a Government of the people by the people; and every citizen has a personal interest in the decision of questions of public policy, or in the exercise of Executive authority.

The muddle, into which the enforcement of the tax-law has brought us, is a matter of astonishment and concern to many taxpayers. Why cannot this important function of the Government, the semi-annual tax-gathering, be conducted on business principle? Who not send out tax bills as does the Superintendent of Waterworks?

If the Government wishes to call in certain bonds, it carefully advertises numbers, dates, amounts for months beforehand. Why should not the citizens have been notified that failure to pay their taxes before Jan. 1, would work a forfeiture of their right of suffrage? If a man cannot be deprived of property rights except by due process of law, how is it that this important right of suffrage should be forfeited, by gross negligence on the part of Government officials, quite as much as by the pardonable ignorance of the voter? One looks in vain through the tax-law for any notification of the penalty of a loss of the voting privilege. It seems that it is a provision of the Constitution, designed to do away with the iniquitous practice of buying votes and voters just before election. But if the tax-collector is careful to notify delinquents, that a penalty of ten per cent. will be demanded on all taxes not paid before Jan. 15, why should not the voters have been also warned by the same official authority that this still heavier penalty would fall on all who did not pay before January 1st? Can any man, any Government, take advantage of its own wrong-doing to work additional injustice? Is not this a case where the Executive can interfere, as has been done to save merchants from giving public account of their personal affairs?

What, too, are the legal reasons for this recent action of the executive, suspending some of the provisions of the tax-law? What is the basis of the objections made by the merchants? In these days of limping justice, lamed as well as blindfolded, when the pressure is brought to bear more and more heavily on one class in the community, on the worker rather than on the manipulator, it is well to have the right and the wrong clearly presented. There is a wrong way, it must be acknowledged, that may be taken to secure unquestioned rights. Methods of procedure, it cannot be denied, must be scrutinized, as well as principles of action. Surely, in these days of constant discussion of economical problems, it is too late to raise objections to the principle of the income tax. All taxes must be paid out of accumulations, and the income tax is not a penalty laid upon thrift; it is a proper equalization of burdens in proportion to incomes. More and more are governments adopting this principle as their settled policy. The British Chancellor of the Exchequer, said last month, in allusion to the changes of the sixty years since the beginning of Victoria's reign, that then 71 per cent of the revenue was derived from taxes on commodities, now only 44 per cent. Taxes on income and on property have supplanted the old methods. Annuity taxes and dodging taxes are not modes of procedure, which wealth can always practice with impunity. No reasons seem to have been given on either side. Executive functions take the place of legislative and judicial functions; and this is justifiable for good reasons occasionally; not necessarily a usurpation of power; why not give reasons, and show the rightfulness of these queer proceedings? Are they "on the square?"

COCAINE FIENDS.

Habit Growing Among Honolulu Men.

"You see that man over there," said a white-faced Honoluluite yesterday, as a troubled-looking man walked along Fort Street. "Well it's 10 to 1 that he goes into a drug store, and if he does, it's the same odds he buys cocaine. He's a fiend, but he doesn't realize it. I have been through the mill, and there's a dozen men in Honolulu who are using the drug to ease imaginary pain, and who are rapidly becoming addicted to the use of it, and who will get so far before long that they cannot do without it.

"Cured? Why, certainly, but it cost me a lot of money, or rather, my friends, for I had none to spare that way, and no particular desire to stop using the drug—I was forced into it by men who had a greater regard for my future than I. How did I begin? The way every one does. I suffered considerably from catarrh in the head, a 2 per cent solution of cocaine was prescribed, and I began it. The first two or three times it was not as alluring as I had expected, but it was not long before the pleasant dreams came, and, without knowing it, I became a victim.

"I can see men on the street here every day who are gradually but surely working their way to a point where cocaine will be as necessary to them as the air they breathe. They will find that they cannot sleep without first taking it, and then they will take it again if they chance to wake up in the night. It gives these poor devils an idea that they are strong and they try to perform what prove to be impossible tasks.

I never see one of those poor devils but what I feel sorry for them. And for two reasons. First, because while they are snuffing up their two per cent solution, they are blowing out their brains. And, secondly, because while they are doing this they imagine no one knows it.

"That man I just pointed out to you thinks his secret is hidden in his own breast, and that no one can detect the habit, but he is wrong. Any man who has ever used cocaine knows what it is, and the effects of it. He knows by the expression on a man's face whether or not he uses it. In San Francisco cocaine has taken the place of morphine, though I believe the former is the more dangerous of the two, because it affects the brain.

"In Chicago, its use became so general among young men and factory girls that a city ordinance was passed prohibiting the sale of it. Then an enterprising, but unprincipled druggist began the manufacture of a snuff which takes its place, and hundreds of people use it and help him to make a fortune. By the way, snuffing is a favorite way of using the stuff, because it is not as apt to show on a man as by the use of a hypo. You might see a man snuff a solution a dozen times and think nothing of it, but if you should see him step to one side and take a shot with a syringe you would suspect at once that he is a fiend. The people here snuff it—none of them use a syringe for the very reason that they want to keep their habit from the knowledge of their families or friends.

"What would I recommend? Why, that moral suasion be used on the victims and a rigid law by the Government, prohibiting the sale of the drug, except on the prescription of a physician, and an additional law which would forbid that prescription being refilled. When opium was sold under a license in Honolulu natives became addicted to it, and I don't know many who gave it up. Cocaine is quite as pleasant to the fiend as opium, and there is nothing in the way of their becoming addicted to it. These habits spread like a plague, but not so rapidly. Once a man or woman gets addicted to it there is trouble ahead. He will not realize his danger, and will never admit that he cannot stop it. In this respect, it is like the use of liquor; few people will admit that they cannot drink or not, as they choose, but the records of a local liquor habit hospital prove that nearly 150 of these "stop-when-they-want-to" fellows over-estimated their abilities. It took me a year to stop the use of cocaine, and I have not touched it for five years. I have no desire for it, and feel sorry when I see a man of intelligence falling into the trap."

FOURTH OF JULY.

Program of Sports Arranged By Committee.

The meeting of the Sports Committee for the 4th of July Celebration was held at the Drill Shed last night, Major Jones presiding. A general discussion of the proposed athletic events was indulged in and the following program decided upon:

AQUATIC SPORTS.

120 yard hurdle race. First and second medals.
Greased pole. $5.
Bicycle relay race (in the morning before the parade). Prize $25 to team making best time.

These events are set subject to change.
The special committee for the day is A. G. M. Robertson, Captain Lorenzen and Clarence Crabbe.

DEATH OF FRANK SPENCER.

Died at the Residence of Mrs. Bickerton Last Night.

Frank Spencer one of the pioneers of Hawaii, died at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. Judge Bickerton, Waikiki at 9 o'clock last night. Mr. Spencer came to the Islands in 1850 and has lived on Hawaii nearly all the time since then. For thirty years past he was in the cattle business at Waimea, Kauai, and during most of that time he performed the duties of District Magistrate.

The deceased came here to visit his daughter about six months ago owing to ill health and a few weeks ago, he had an attack of bronchitis which turned to congestion of the lungs and caused his death at the age of 77 years. The arrangements for the funeral are not completed but it is believed services will be held at the Bickerton residence by either Mr. Mackintosh or Mr. Kitcat. The remains will be taken to Hawaii by the next Kinau.

Besides Mrs. Bickerton, who is a daughter by a former wife, Mr. Spencer leaves a wife and three children.

WAS VOTED DOWN

Proposition for Holiday
On May 24.

Site for New School House—Demand for Increased Accommodations.

At the regular weekly session of the Commissioners of Education, held yesterday afternoon, there were present the following: President Cooper, Mrs. B. F. Dillingham, Mrs. E. W. Jordan, J. F. Scott, Professor Alexander, W. A. Bowen and H. M. von Holt. Minutes of the previous meeting read and approved.

Mr. Scott reported on the proposed new Ewa school, the Walawa school house and the matter of holiday on Monday, May 24, as follows:

First—I have been to Ewa and examined the site for the proposed new school building, together with Manager Ahrens. The school lot at Waipio is 1-1/2 acres in extent and is a beautiful site. A native is living on the premises. Claims the house is his but upon being questioned as to the land, said he knew nothing about that. He has been in his present location for nine years. The school site is three-eighths of a mile away from the new mill site and is located right on the road, a tremendous advantage.

Second—The building and land in Walawa are in excellent condition. The only thing wrong about the house is that it has one rotten sill. There is positively nothing the matter with the place.

Third—Several teachers have asked me regarding a holiday on May 24th. They want to know if it is to be a whole or a half holiday.

In regard to this last, President Cooper said that no holiday had been proclaimed for that day. He supposed, however, that the teachers would do just as they had on Washington's birthday. No holiday was proclaimed and yet the teachers chose to allow their children to go. He could see no reason why, if the Executive Building closed, the schools should close likewise.

After much discussion it was finally moved, seconded and carried that no holiday be declared for the 24th, and now there will be weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth of both teachers and pupils.

Mr. Scott reported on the Hodson children now in Professor Scott's room. They had been out of school only 2 days when Professor Scott took them back again on his own responsibility. The father was found to be poor but worthy.

Mr. Scott then referred to the crowded condition of the public schools, saying that he had much trouble of late within a very short space of time he had arrested a half dozen boys for truancy. The little fellows told him they were perfectly willing to attend school but that there was no place to go.

Mr. Scott spoke about the woman in the yard next to the Marquesville school, who had recently made complaint that the boys of that institution had ruined her garden by running into her yard after balls which happened to go over the fence. She had remonstrated with them, and they, in turn, had become very saucy. As a mode of retaliation she had taken and hid the balls that came over from the school yard. Asked in regard to the balls, she handed out two said they were the only ones she had. After a little coaxing she found two more, but was decided in the opinion that there were no more in her possession. The boys claimed that she had seven.

Mr. Scott said that a different state of affairs had taken the place of the old. Now, when a ball goes over the fence one of the girls of the school walks over to the front gate and politely asks the lady of the house: "Please, ma'am, may I have that ball that was so unfortunate as to bounce in your yard?"

Two petitions were received from Watalua, Molokai, asking that Mr. Callow be reinstated. Referred to the teachers' committee.

An application from Prof. W. P. Thompson, of Dayton, Ohio, for a position as teacher, was read and referred to the teachers' committee.

President Cooper stated that he had been approached by Mr. Lightfoot on a proposition to start a class in the night class for the preparation of intending teachers for the regular teachers' examination. President Cooper stated that he had told Mr. Lightfoot this could probably be done if a foundation had already been formed.

Mr. Scott spoke about the renewal of first and second grade certificates. These had been renewed for a year in many cases. Now that the time was up the question had naturally sprung up again.

It seemed to be the sense of the meeting that the teachers applying for renewals of their certificates be asked to send in such certificates for the inspection of the commissioners.

In the matter of a class for the preparation of people for teachers' examinations, the commissioners voted that authority be given President Cooper to decide on the matter with Mr. Lightfoot.

President Cooper stated that it was the intention of the Government to build a court house at Koloa, Kauai. The board has two school lots at that place. A transfer might be made by which the Government could have a lot. The matter was left in the hands of President Cooper, with power to act.

MACE'S PROSECUTION.

Charged With Scuttling Ship, But Held as Absconding Debtor.

The case of Mace, the man charged with scuttling the Indiana still languishes in Hilo charged with being an absconding debtor, as well as with scuttling the ship. It seems that when the man was about to be transferred to the Indiana to be sent to New York for trial some one presented a claim for $300 being an unpaid balance of $557, loaned a few days before.

The strange part of the case is that a sailor drawing only $17 per month, and who had been ashore but once on leave, could find a capitalist willing to loan so much money with only a note at hand, and unendorsed, for security. The case is not yet ended, but it is quite likely that Mace will go around the Horn in some other vessel as the Indiana has already sailed for New York.

BATTALION DRILL.

Kamehameha Roy Meets With Shooting Accident.

The battalion from the Philadelphia commanded by Lieut.-Commander Ingersoll, landed at 8 o'clock yesterday and marched to Kamehameha school grounds, where they were put through the various drill movements and then had a sham battle. The affair was an innovation to the scholars.

At the termination of the battle, a sailor named Moffett, found a cartridge wedged in his rifle and in attempting to dislodge it the cartridge exploded, the wad striking Uliani Lemon in the hip. The cruiser surgeon rendered prompt service. Afterward Dr. Herbert took charge of the case. The wound is not serious.

TUG-OF-WAR.

Arrangements Made for Revival the Sport.

The revival of the interest in sports has extended to tugs of war and in order that a contest may be pulled off the Bristol Pavilion, corner of Beretania and Alakea streets, has been engaged by some young men who have arranged with several teams to take part.

It is expected that besides a strong Hawaiian team there will be a good one from each of the men of war in port. Representative of various nationalities will also take part. The initial pull will take place Saturday, June 5th.

Reading That Pays.

At a recent session of the Working Woman's Societies in this city, Miss Dyer, of Boston, in some hints on "How to Read the Newspapers," told her hearers to "select a few large movements and to follow them methodically." The large movements from the feminine point of view at this time of year are the movements of dry goods, millinery and summer requisites; and, followed methodically in the advertising columns, they certainly do make profitable reading.—Philadelphia Record.

Hilo is Ahead.

According to the entries for the oratorical contest of the Hawaiian Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, the young people of Hilo are more active than those of Honolulu. Thus far five have entered from Hilo and only two from Honolulu. The scholars of the Government schools are not represented among the Honolulu entries. The contest is open to any pupil in public or private schools. The prizes are $25, $20 $15 and $10.

Gone to Hawaii.

Captain King, Minister of the Interior, and W. E. Rowell, Superintendent of Public Works, left for Hilo on the Kinau yesterday morning. They will remain in the Rainy City long enough to make arrangements for the building of a wharf at Waiala.

From there the two Government officials will ride overland to Hamakua and will pick out places for light-houses at Makahanaloa and Kohala points.

Reeves-Laanui.

In St. Andrew's Cathedral, at 8 o'clock last night, Miss Kalani K. Laanui, a niece of Miss Lucy Peabody, was married to Charles Reeves of the Mutual Telephone Company, the Rev. J. Osborne officiating. After the ceremony a reception, which included only members of the family, was held at the home of Miss Peabody, Vineyard street. The newly-married couple will go to housekeeping in the city.

Queen's Birthday.

H. B. M. Commissioner Hawes has extended a general invitation to the public to attend the reception at his Palama residence on Monday, the 24th inst., the occasion being the celebration of the 78th anniversary of the birth of Her Majesty Queen Victoria.

MUST WAIT FOR PAY.

Money for San Francisco Officials Not forthcoming.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 11.—The deficit in the city's finances, together with the revenue law which will not permit the use of the money collected from personal property taxes until apportionment in September will keep the city treasury almost bankrupt during the months of July, August and September. If the June salaries are withheld in whole or in part, the payment of other claims than the officials' will be impossible.

and employees will have their salaries tied up for four months.

Mayor Phelan said when his attention was called to the matter, that some arrangements should be made by the city officials with some bank to have the money furnished for the employees at a reasonable rate of interest, as the rates charged by the brokers would become a serious burden during the four months. He said he would investigate and ascertain what arrangements could be made.

Hawaii needs and must have a first passenger service between Honolulu and Hilo, a word to the wise is sufficient.

It is the consensus of opinions that there should be an additional Circuit Judge for Hawaii, one man cannot do the work.

LITTLE BUSINESS

Health Board Discusses
Routine Matters.Reports From Cattle Inspectors.
Quarantine Expenses
Kinal Maru.

Notwithstanding a broken arm, the result of a Pali accident, Mr. Lansing joined President Smith and Dr. Emerson, Wood, Brown and Kelipio at the meeting of the Board of Health in regular session yesterday afternoon and listened to the reading of minutes of the last meeting.

Reports of Dr. Monsarrat, Mr. Kelipio and Dr. Myers were read and filed.

In the investigations by Doctors Monsarrat and Shaw, the following reports were read:

Office of the Board of Health, HONOLULU, H. I., May 14, 1897. President and Members Board of Health, Honolulu, H. I.,

Gentlemen:—We herewith respectfully submit report, of results of tests with tuberculin at the Kapahulu Dairy located above Kapiolani Park.

The Dairy was first visited on the 20th of April and work concluded on the 13th inst. Thirty-three cattle were tested as follows: Thirty-one (31) cows, one heifer and one bull.

Eleven cows were slaughtered for suspected tuberculosis owing to tuberculin reaction, and on post mortem, all showed lesions of tuberculosis in different organs.

Since the removal of the infected animals, steps are being taken to put the dairy in a perfectly sanitary condition.

Respectfully submitted,
J. R. SHAW, D. V. S.,
W. T. MONSARRAT, V. S.,
Inspectors.

Office of the Board of Health, HONOLULU, H. I., May 19, 1897. President and Members Board of Health, Honolulu, H. I.,

Gentlemen:—Herewith respectfully submit report of tuberculin test on three cattle property of Mr. Fred. Waterhouse, Nuuanu Valley, adjoining dairy of Mr. E. W. Jordan. Numbers 49 to 51 inclusive. No. 49 is to be retested at a later date as present test was not satisfactory 50 and 51 in our opinion are free of disease.

Respectfully submitted,
J. R. SHAW, D. V. S.,
W. T. MONSARRAT, V. S.,
Inspectors Board of Health.

Office of the Board of Health, HONOLULU, H. I., May 19, 1897. President and Members Board of Health, Honolulu, H. I.,

Gentlemen:—Herewith respectfully submit report of tuberculin test at dairy of Mr. E. W. Jordan, Nuuanu Valley, numbering from 34 to 48 inclusive. Cows, ten (10); heifers, four (4); bull, one (1). Numbers 34 and 48 are to be retested at a later date, as the results were not satisfactory. In our opinion the rest of the herd are free from disease.

Respectfully submitted,
J. R. SHAW, D. V. S.,
W. T. MONSARRAT, V. S.,
Inspectors Board of Health.

A report from Mr. Hutchinson at Kalawao, contained the details of the stabbing affray which occurred there recently. Mention was also made of the disappearance of Japanese leprosy remedies from the storehouse at the settlement. An investigation will be made.

Lao Chu wrote to the board that he had received information that his wife is free from leprosy and asked that she be re-examined. Action on this matter will be taken when the board visits the settlement.

The matter of the memorial hospital at Hilo was discussed after a statement from Mr. Taylor had been read. The question of who should be treated in the hospital was the bone of contention and it was finally decided to allow Dr. Wood to formulate some plan and report.

Executive Officer Reynolds reported that he had secured all the bills for the quarantine of the passengers of the Kinal Maru. The total amount is $5,848.48. This amount must be paid, as the parties who furnished supplies and the guards in attendance want their money. A bottomry bond for $8,000 was taken from the ship and will be sent to Japan for enforcement. As the appropriation for quarantine purposes is not sufficient to cover this expense it was decided to ask the Council of State to make a special appropriation to cover and when the money is paid by the Steamship Company the amount will go back into the Treasury as a realization.

MORE IMMIGRATION TROUBLE. Commissioner Stradley Enforces the Regulations.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 9.—The restrictions regarding the landing of Japanese immigrants have caused more trouble between Immigration Commissioner Stradley and the steamship companies. There were fifty-one Japanese on the Umatilla that arrived day before yesterday and the Pacific Coast Steamship Company through Custom-house Broker W. H. Thornley, its attorney, notified the Commissioner that the Japanese would be put ashore as soon as possible, and if he wished to examine them he would have to do so afterward. Commissioner Stradley promptly served a written notice on Broker Thornley and warned him not to be guilty of any violation of the law.

When Commissioner Stradley attempted to prove that the Japanese were practically coming to this city under contract and detained thirty of them on the Victoria steamer three weeks ago, Senator Perkins, a member of the steamship company, pressed the matter before Commissioner-General Stump and got a reply from him that if the Japanese had certificates issued by the Commissioner at Victoria they were sufficient to show the Japanese had a right to land.

Commissioner Stradley did not consider this as covering every point, so he telegraphed to the department asking if it was not necessary to have a medical examination of all immigrants even those who passed the Commissioner at Victoria. He received an answer that as there was no marine hospital surgeon at Victoria all immigrants must be examined here before they could land.

Commissioner Stradley also took the stand that while a certificate was sufficient to land a Japanese it was his duty to see if the certificate was valid. He so notified the steamship company, as the purser of the Umatilla handed Immigration Inspector Geffney fifty-one certificates and claimed that was sufficient to let the Japanese go ashore without examination. Geffney refused to let them do so, and upon examination claimed that five of the Japanese had false certificates that had been issued to other Japanese and sold or given to the five on the steamer. These five were specially examined, but as they were entitled to land anyway they were allowed to do so.

The reason for the five Japanese using false certificates is not known, especially as they could have got their own certificates at Victoria without trouble. It is believed the ignorant laborers were duped by some persons engaged in making money out of certificates. The matter is being investigated.

The steamship people contend that they exercise every possible care at Victoria, and do not allow any Japanese to come aboard their vessels without showing a certificate. They are not able to pass upon the question of the certificate being good or bogus. They claim that when they turn the Japanese over to the Federal authorities here their responsibilities cease.

The fifty-one Japanese that came on the Umatilla were taken to the quarantine station, there examined by Inspector Geffney and brought back to this city on the quarantine boat Sternberg. Less trouble is expected in the future, as the regulations are pretty well understood now.

U. S. S. ADAMS HERE. Will Remain in Honolulu Only About a Week.

The U. S. S. Training Ship Adams, W. C. Gibson Commander, arrived in port yesterday morning, two days from Hilo, at which port they remained a week. She came the whole way under sail with the exception of getting out of Hilo harbor, when she used steam.

The Adams will remain here about a week when she will proceed to Puget Sound and from there to San Francisco where she is due, July 14. It is said that when she arrives in San Francisco she will have a new deck put in which will take two or three months' time and that she will go out of commission.

Addressing one of the officers in regard to the short stay in Honolulu he replied: "The Adams is a training ship and we must expect to make only the briefest stays at the various ports we visit. We have aboard some eighty boys from 15 years up who are being taught the life of a bluejacket and the sea is where they must get their training. To remain at any port longer than necessary, would be to defeat the purpose for which the Adams has been sent out. Remember, however, that I do not say this because I, and several others of us, would not like to remain over."

H. B. M. S. Wild Swan. H. B. M. S. Wild Swan, Macvey Napier, arrived in port yesterday morning after a three weeks' cruise among the islands of the South Pacific, during which time she called at Christmas Island, Fanning's Island, Washington Island and Palmyra. The Wild Swan will leave soon for Esquimaux.

An effort will be made to have her remain over to the Queen's Jubilee.

H. B. M. S. Wild Swan sailed from Honolulu, April 27; arrived at Christmas Island, May 4, leaving same evening for Fanning Island. Fanning was reached May 6, and left again the next day. Washington Island was visited May 8, and Palmyra the following day, when the ship was headed for Honolulu. On the southward passage, fair wind was experienced all the way.

THE NUGGET OF GOLD ORE. "That," said my friend, in reply to a question of mine, "is a very large and very rich nugget of gold ore. It was taken many years ago from a mine in Australia."

"How much is it worth?" I asked. He looked at me with a shrewd smile and replied: "It is worth just nothing at all."

I thought that a queer thing for him to say, but asked no more questions. Two years later I again visited his house in London, and this time I missed the big nugget from the shelf where I had first seen it. But I asked no questions. Perhaps, recalling the incident of two years before, my friend said: "I have something to show you," and, opening a closet, he produced a magnificent gold vase, remarking: "That nugget of gold ore has taken this form. Exclusive of the labor involved in the transformation, the gold alone is now worth £100."

What curious similitudes there are between things essentially unlike! Here is one which it may be instructive to follow up. It is suggested by the following sentence from a woman's letter—"In spite of all the nourishing food I took nothing seemed to give me strength."

Now, why was that? Perhaps the history of the previous three years of her life may help to account for it. In January, 1890, she had an attack of influenza which, she says, left her low, weak, and languid. So far as we are able to ascertain, influenza is caused by a certain poison in the blood developed during peculiar conditions of the atmosphere. Its early symptoms are those of a fever; they are always sudden and often alarming. Yet, as in nearly all cases it ends in recovery in a week or two, it does not explain the mystery of Mrs. Westall's continued weakness and prostration.

She tells us that her appetite was poor, and that eating was immediately followed by great pain in the chest, back and sides. Hoping to overcome this state of things she took much nourishing food. That an increase of strength should result from the eating of plenty of good food would seem reasonable. How else can one ever gain strength? Yet, strange to say, no such result followed. On the contrary the pains became worse, so that—to use her own words—she was "completely racked with pain" all over her, and so weak she could scarcely put one foot before the other. Besides this the condition of the stomach was far from encouraging. That organ is the source of all power in the human body, and should feel warm, comfortable and quiet. In this lady's case it was full of uneasiness and pain. She speaks of a craving, gnawing, sinking sensation in it, which was not relieved either by food or by any medical treatment. Certainly, something quite different from a former attack of influenza went to the making of that; we must look deeper to find the real trouble.

Chemists often determine the character of a poison by observing the color it creates when applied to litmus paper; and—in addition to the general symptoms—it is sometimes possible to tell the nature of a disease by taking notice what cures it. Now, there is one universally known remedy which never fails to cure one subtle, comprehensive, and yet deceptive disease. Happily it was finally employed in Mrs. Westall's case.

In concluding her letter, dated December 1st, 12 Rucklidge avenue, Willesden, London, N. W., 1892—she says: "At the time when my condition was very critical and my family very anxious, my son-in-law, Mr. Deacon, of Shepherd's Bush Road, London, told me how, in an illness of his own, he had been cured by Mother Seigel's Curative Syrup and advised me to begin using it at once. I did so, and soon my appetite returned and my food digested; and by the time I had consumed two bottles I was strong as ever, and have kept in the best of health ever since—(Signed) Yours truly, Mary Westall."

This remedy, as the public is well aware, is advertised to cure indigestion and dyspepsia and its consequences—and nothing else. Yet these consequences include nearly every ailment with which we are familiar. Even influenza seldom attacks any save those whose blood is first poisoned by indigestion and dyspepsia.

And as to that nugget of gold ore? Ah, yes.—Gold is worthless until it is manufactured. Food is useless until it is digested. Between the ore and the vase is the workman. Between food and strength also a workman—the stomach.

Harry Swinton Concludes the Marshall Group.

NEXT PAPER ON THE GILBERT

Morning Star Has Many Experiences.

Teachers and Their Work Among Natives—Chiefs and Their Sterling Qualities.

So far there have been two papers on the subject of the Marshall Islands from the pen of Mr. Harry Swinton who was first officer on the missionary packet Morning Star during her last cruise in the South Seas. In the paper given below will be found the conclusion of the cruise among the islands of the Marshall group. The next paper will deal with the Gilbert Islands. Mr. Swinton concludes the Marshalls as follows:

Arriving at the passage, on the way out, we found, as already stated, sea breaking clean across. Concluded to luff up and come to anchor, thinking of course it would moderate sometime during the day. After waiting until 6 o'clock that evening we found it necessary to stop there that night on account of the weather.

About 11 o'clock next day, notwithstanding it was not much better, we got under way, set all sail, and, stemming at the same time, managed to get out of the lagoon, bound for Wato, another one of the new islands we had to visit.

Found after getting out into the open sea, bad weather, heavy seas running and strong wind dead ahead. Under the circumstances Dr. Rife who had some authority as to the Star's movements in this group with the Captain of course concurring, concluded to keep off for Ujae, leaving Wato out until the next year. I must admit it suited me to a dot, and if I am not mistaken, the Captain himself felt pleased at the change of program.

Two hours and fifteen minutes after we sighted the north end of Ujae, some 18 miles away, bearing SW by S by the compass.

Came up to it at noon, ran along the lead towards the entrance into the lagoon.

Entered the lagoon 2:15 p. m. with a strong head wind to contend with in the passage. Fifteen minutes before that we had cleared up all our sails. It was as much as we could do to steam into the lagoon. After entering we kept off as the station was away at the south end of lagoon, some fifteen miles away.

The wind now being favorable, we set all fore and aft sails, and steaming at the same time, came to an anchor off the Mission station 4:25 p. m., or two hours and fifteen minutes after entering the passage.

That night it commenced to blow and rain with heavy squalls at intervals; 4:15 that morning (Nov. 5th), let go the other anchor. Paid out 50 fathoms of chain on the port anchor and 30 on the other.

After breakfast, Dr. Rife, Miss Palmer, the school girls and boys, went in to see the teacher and have their social gathering with the people, the bad weather notwithstanding. Found here the chief of Wato, the island we were to visit, but had left for the next trip, as previously stated.

It seems that he brought back his own canoe some of the natives of this island who had drifted away, which showed conclusively that he had some Christian feeling. To his delight, the Morning Star sailed in while he was still there waiting for an opportunity to get home.

We left with him the teacher which we ourselves had intended to land on his own island, some 25 or 30 miles to the northward and eastward from here. He was very much pleased at this. He might have had to wait sometime before getting a chance to go back. The wind must needs be favorable or else he might have drifted away as did the ones he brought back.

After being delayed there a day or two longer than we had calculated, on account of the weather, we weighed anchor Saturday, November 7th, for our next port—Namuich—some 250 miles to the southward and eastward of us.

Four days sailing found us laying too, 1 o'clock that night—November 11th, having run the distance as per observation. When daylight came, no land was in sight; 8:30 that morning, took an observation, found we were 57 miles to the eastward, having been carried there by a strong current.

As we did not care to beat up to it, concluded to keep off for Ebon, 9 o'clock that same morning.

By observation at noon found ourselves 41 miles from Ebon and the wind being light, did not sight land until 6:15 that evening.

We luffed up to the wind, furling all light sails, and waited for daylight.

Bright and early got up steam and came up to the east end of Ebon, 7 a. m., November 12th, entered passage two hours later and came to an anchor off the station, 9:40 a. m.

I remember some 21 and 22 years ago when I was in the old Morning Star, piloting her to the anchorage. It was here that Mr. Snow and Mr. Whitney were stationed. The pilot looked the same, but I missed the genial face of Mr. Snow who has since come to his reward. I remember how upon our arrival he was wont to come on board with a smiling face and shake hands with the hand all who happened to be aboard.

I remember, also how he used to get up with me during my watch on deck at night, and speak to me about my spiritual welfare. Although I was not a Christian, I felt very much interested. The pleasant way he had of expounding the Scriptures to me, quoting several passages of Holy writ, to show me the error of my ways, made me feel very much like Agrippa before the Apostle Paul. I could say as he did, "Almost thou persuadest me to be a Christian." I did not tell him so, however, no matter how much I may have felt like doing so.

There we had pleasant weather, the teacher of the island came on board and a number of canoes alongside.

One of our visitors was a half-caste of the Sandwich Islands. He has lived in that group for a number of years, is married and has a family. His oldest boy was on board with us. He had been a year at the training school on Kusaie and had just returned to his family. His little daughter goes to the girls training school. We took her on board when we left the next day.

The Hawaiian referred to had the misfortune of losing his right hand while fishing with giant powder. This has prevented him from doing much work. He is a fine blacksmith. Owing to the misfortune, he wants to get back home once more and to bring his family with him. I told him I would see what could be done for him when I got back again in Honolulu.

After dinner on the day of our arrival, Dr. Rife, Miss Palmer, the school girls and boys went ashore to see the people. Found everything satisfactory there and the good work going triumphantly onward.

Next day, 4:15 p. m., November 13th, got under weigh for Namuich; passed out of the lagoon, 4:40 into the open sea. As we wanted to get to the next place bright and early the next morning, we sailed and steamed; 11 o'clock that night stopped engines; 5:30 a. m., raised land 8 miles away; started engines again; soon we were running along the coast for the Mission station. This was one of the islands where we had to lay off and on, as there is no entrance into the lagoon. When abreast of the station, lowered boat. Dr. Rife, Miss Palmer, with their crowd, went ashore as usual to see the people. This is the only island in the group from which no canoes came alongside.

We were in luck on account of having such fine weather. The people ashore told us that it was the first fine day they had seen for two or three weeks. If we had arrived there the day before, we could not have landed.

Found the work here as at Ebon, progressing. We left a few passengers whom we had brought from the other islands, to keep the good work.

6:15 p. m.—Boat returned with Dr. Rife, Miss Palmer and the rest of them. We then braced forward, made all sails but the royal, and set out for Jaluit, our last port in this group.

Since the Germans have taken these islands, they have made it imperative that vessels shall enter and clear from Jaluit. This makes it very inconvenient as far as the Morning Star is concerned, for when she leaves Kusaie to go through the Marshall groups with the training school girls and boys on board to see their relations, she will have to pass Namuich and Ebon to go to Jaluit; whereas, if she could call at those two places on her way there, it would shorten her voyage considerably. She would then proceed on her rounds by way of Mille and go the whole circuit with wind and current in her favor, Ujae then being the last island to visit. She could make a bee line for Jaluit, with a leading wind in her favor.

But as it is now, she leaves Ujae for Nameneh, then Ebon; after that she will have to beat up to Jaluit against a strong head wind, accompanied with bad weather. The distance is not much between the islands, but the Star is not a very fast boat, especially if there is any beating to windward on the program.

Her beating-to-windward qualities puts one in mind of a hog going to war, "to-wit, 'broadside to leeward."

Well, we were quite fortunate this trip in making the run from Nameneh to Jaluit in three days, over a distance of 75 or 80 miles. Came to an anchor off Imroio, Jeremah's station. Jeremah, it will be remembered, is one of the oldest teachers in the group. We stopped there that night. Next morning, the 18th, started down for Jaluit station with the intention of getting our clearance and of getting away that same day for Kusaie. Judge, then, our surprise when we were told by the Commissioner that, as it was a day appointed by the German Emperor for thanksgiving, no business could be transacted until the next day.

We found at anchor there one German man-of-war, two merchant barks, one brig and one schooner. One of the barks left that day with a full load of copra.

Next day, 19th, we weighed anchor for Kusaie, notwithstanding it looked as though we were to encounter boisterous weather. It did certainly look gloomy. Just as the anchor was weighed, one of those squalls, which the Marshall Islands are noted for, overtook us. It did not disconcert the captain one iota. We kept on, steaming towards the south passage, although one could not see further than the end of the jib-boom.

When we consider that these lagoons are full of shoals, it was risky to a certain extent, but the captain knew what he was about. He had been there so often that he knew his bearings. He had that confidence in his own ability that he could, if necessary, go out of the lagoon in the night, and I, myself, believe he could.

I would like to say right here that when Captain Garland leaves the Morning Star, the American Board and all those connected with mission work in Micronesia, will miss a man whose position will be hard to fill. In the first place, he is a good navigator, a most careful man correct in his reckoning, obliging to a fault, to all the missionaries who have business with the Star, mindful always of the comforts of those under his care and possessed of an eye like a hawk, a very necessary quality to have in the groups through which the Morning Star has to go. His knowledge of the route, the tides and those treacherous currents and shoals, which Micronesia is noted for, makes him a man whose position, excepting none, would be, as I have already stated, hard to fill.

When the passage was reached the chief, who went through the group with us, met us. He had left us when we anchored off Jeremah's station (Imroio) for his home on the other side of the lagoon. He went to get his daughter, whom he has sent to the Kusaie Training School. He came on board with his daughter—a girl of 11 or 12 summers—and her baggage. He brought coconuts, bananas and other eatables as presents for the Star.

After getting out of the lagoon, we steamed along for six or seven hours as the wind was very light. After that we made sail, as it breezed up from the north-east. Stopped steaming and made Kusaie on November 25, 1896. Came to an anchor about noon that day. When we sighted Kusaie, saw a sail on our lee bow, some eight or nine miles off. We signaled to her, and she to us, but being too far off, could not make her out. She was, however, a large, four-masted ship, square rigged four and aft. Thus there ends our Marshall Islands' trip.

To sum up the cruise in this group, I must say, the American Board ought to be satisfied with the progress thus far made throughout the group. To one, such as myself, who was there some 22 years ago, I must say a wonderful change has taken place, spiritually, showing conclusively to my mind that the labors of the band of Godly men and women who left the comforts of their homes and went out to preach the Gospel to the heathens are not lost. Mighty, through God, have they been in the pulling down of strongholds, the casting down of imagination and every high thing that has ever exerted itself against the knowledge of God, withal, the bringing into captivity of every thought to the obedience of Christ.

HARRY SWINTON.

Fastest Boat in the World.

The steam turbine-driven boat Turbina is reported to have made the speed of 32½ knots an hour in an official trial in England on April 10th. This is about 37½ statute miles an hour. The engine of the Turbina is the invention of William Parsons. The vessel which was built for the purpose of these trials is constructed of steel plate, varying in thickness from 3-16 inch at the bottom to 1-16 inch at the sides near the stern; 100 feet long over all, 9 feet beam and weighing complete, without machinery or stores 15 tons. As originally fitted up the Turbina had one engine and screw which were calculated to develop and use upward of 1,300 horse power, with a speed of 2,500 revolutions a minute. Steam was supplied by a water tube boiler, built to supply steam at 225 pounds working pressure, and with 1,100 square feet of grate surface. The draught was forced by a fan, and there was a condenser with a surface of 4,200 square feet. With the outfit complete the approximate were:—Main engines, 3 tons 13 cwt.

Total weight of machinery and boiler, crews and shafting, tanks, etc. 22
Weight of hull complete 15
Coal and water 74

Total displacement 44½ tons.

VMADE AND WAVE.

The next steamer from the Coast is the Australia, due May 25.

Spoken—April 20th, lat. 29:01, lon. 98:56, ship S. P. Hitchcock, Honolulu for New York.

Captain Fitzgerald left for Hilo on the Kinau yesterday to enter in upon his duties as pilot at that place.

The Iwalani will remain in port this week for the purpose of having slight repairs made on certain parts of her machinery.

The American bark Fresno, Underwood master, arrived in port late Monday, 25 days from Port Townsend with a cargo of lumber.

The Mauna Loa will bring 30 head of cattle from Kau. This will crowd the men at Iwilei to its utmost capacity. There are about 125 head there already.

The British bark Mauna Loa, 1,07 tons, was on Tiejien & Lang Dry Dock Company's dock at Hoboken, N. J., May 2d, being stripped, calked and detailed.

By virtue of her marine novelty—compound steam turbines—the new British torpedo boat Turbina has achieved the world's record of 32½ knots. This swiftness is unparalleled by that of any warlike craft afloat. The Forban, fastest of the French torpedo boats, has a record of only about 31 knots, while the Desperate, the star torpedo boat destroyer of the British navy, achieved only a little over the same rate. The American torpedo boat Porter (originally christened Farragut), built by the Herreshoffs, has a record of only 28.74 knots.

The old-time steamer Sirius has taken a new lease of life and a new captain is in command of her. Several years ago she came to this port with a general cargo, and later on was placed in the South American trade, says the San Francisco Call. The venture was not a success, and when the vessel changed hands she was rechristened the Scandinavia. Her next venture was in the sugar trade and her name was changed to the Kahului. The new owners found that there was no money in the island trade, and for nearly a year the steamer has been tied up in Oakland Creek. Last week she received a thorough overhauling. Captain Hall, late of the Corona, was placed in command of her, and in a few days she will start on the Puget Sound route. She is now under the American flag, and will be known in future as the Cleveland.
